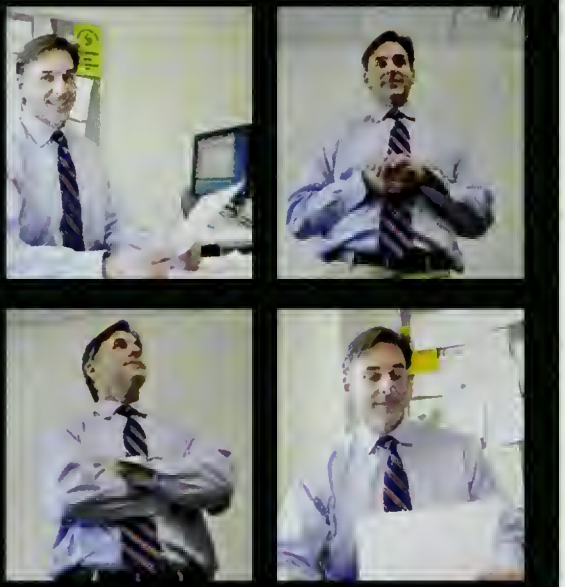
MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL



Dear Class of 2012,

Your time at King Philip is coming to an end
You have invested countless hours, energy and effort in the pursuit of a diploma.
Having a diploma conferred upon you closes one chapter in your life but it also signifies the beginning of another.

I hope that during your time at KP you have discovered who you are. Through opportunities in the classroom, athletics, band, or a multitude of other meaningful endeavors, you have come to understand and appreciate your strengths and redefine you weaknesses.

Whatever you do next I encourage you to make a difference. Apply yourself. Don't give up and don't give in. Keep trying because you never know when that breakthrough moment will occur.

I have had the distinct pleasure to watch yo grow from eager freshman into mature, responsible student-citizens equipped to take on the world. Thank you for the contributions that you have made to your high school. May you always remember you KP roots.

Sincerely,
Robert Wargo, Principal

SPIRIT OF KING PHILIP

Was it the fresh clean smell of freedom that inspired the first pioneers or a cherished dream that they had kept in their hearts to make a better, richer, fuller life that made them challenge the unknown?

Maybe that great Indian of ages past knew the reason as he stood on a high peak watching an ever increasing number of settlers struggle westward. There was something singular about this Indian, for his stern face and stately pose were those of a great leader. But a certain sadness in his eyes told of many long hardships in the future. King Philip was destined by history to become a part of the past and, though nothing he could do would ever change that, with the courage only a great man could possess, he never stopped striving for what he thought was right.

When the Indian nation died, many thought that this great perseverance also had perished. But it existed still as a glowing spirit which burned with the intensity of a campfire in the hearts of the pioneers. As their settlements grew, the people adopted a die-hard determination which mingled with their thoughts, their progress, their literature, and song. As the years passed, it grew with the country. Imprisoned in the minds of Americans, it radiated with a new light, a quest for learning. And it lives today. No longer is it a roaring campfire of pioneer courage. Instead that spirit burns in the minds of youth. Planted there by the fathers of our country, that unwavering courage and determination has become a quest for learning, a quest for knowledge. And in the heart of every youth who strives for self-betterment there burns that spirit, the pioneer spirit, the "Spirit of King Philip".

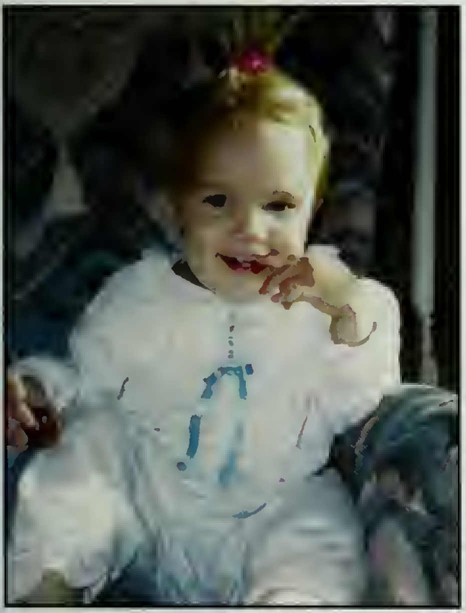
Mom, Dad, Jessica & Camille

Tyler Campbell

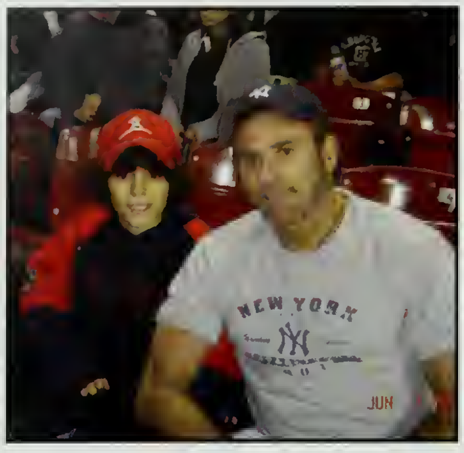
Congratulations Tyler - We are so proud of you &excited about what the future holds!
Love,
Mom, Dad & Marcus

Vanessa Nickerson



Congratulations Vanessa! You were born with the gift of success, always striving to do more and be more. Your athletic achievements and recent academic success prove that you can do anything you put your mind to! Always making us laugh with your crazy stories and expressions! This is what we will miss most when you leave us for college. We can't wait to see what is in the next chapter of your life! We are so proud of you! Go get 'em Go go girl!
Love,
Dad, Mom, Katelyn and Arianna

Logan David



Dear Logan:
We've done a lot
together in the past....
You'll do much more in the future. I love you and am so proud of you!
Love,
Dad
